

Living Syndication

Pervez Taufiq – Lead Vocals
Andy DeCicco – Bass Guitar

Mike Desmond - Guitar
Gregg Irick – Drums

Emotions brought to the surface and revealed through heavy rhythms and blatantly honest lyrics, twisted within distinctly unique grooves, led by vocals that are dark but fiercely passionate. It's the other side of aggression – on the verge, but in control...post '90s hard rock, you could say...slight remnants of the Seattle days perhaps...or maybe even modern commercial heavy rock...

how about just purely Living Syndication.

Living Syndication may fall into the “category” of hard and heavy rock but there are perceptible facets to this stone – sounds of Eastern Indian instrumentation lend an aura of mystery and hypnoticism to songs; shades of jazz fusion subtly influence; moments of acoustic music punctuate the vibe of a song; while pure energy pulls up the weight of intensity. With a collectively diverse background from the members of this Boston-based band – who are Pervez Taufiq on lead vocals, Mike Desmond on guitar, Andy DeCicco on bass, and Gregg Irick on drums – Living Syndication have formed a sound that in a short period of time has begun to generate attention.

Their debut recording, titled Om Factor sold more than 5000 copies, and their new 18 Track CD Aneurhythm just debuted in September. With an arsenal of hits, the album is compelling and intoxicating. It breaks the bonds of what a hard rock genre usually carries, it's no wonder it's getting such amazing reviews and praise..
